He conveyed to the Mayor and City Council the concerns of several citizens regarding a proposed crematorium in North Richmond. Juan Reardon spoke regarding Item J-1 amending Chapter 2.52 of the Municipal code setting forth City Council authority to enter into and competitively negotiate contracts in connection with a Master Development Project in furtherance of development of City-owned properties. He said that it is an uncomfortable adjustment, and in essence that the Council will be asked to move from a Design-Build System to a system where a Master Development Project category will be created, a “carte blanch” category that will not require the mandated competitive bidding process. He said that if the City Council passes the modification with its loose language the City Council will be creating a loop hole because it would allow avoidance of fair competitive bidding of procurement, construction, or renovation projects.
