Light Breakfast at 8:30AM

Tour of JFK Health Center at 8:45 AM

I. Introductions Dr. Harter and Wendell Greer 9:00-9:10

II. Student Presentation JFK Student Body, Carla Panigua 9:10-9:25

- The youth team of the health center presented. The youth team acts as advocates by spreading the word about services and providing confidential support and information to their fellow students.
- The team has reached out to legislators to inform them about the lack of funding for needed school counselors.
- The team conducted a research project focused on school counseling that determined the need, how many are on the wait list or are receiving counseling services.
- The youth and the center are involved in additional programming such as: event planning (AIDS Day), tutoring, and afterschool activities.
- Health & Enrichment Center at Kennedy High School in Richmond.

III. School Based Health Centers WCCUSD Community Schools/ Jenn Rader 9:25-9:40

- The El Cerrito High School-James Morehouse Project (JMH) beginnings are traced to being awarded a Healthy Start Grant, 14 years ago. When they first started the focus was mostly on mental health.
- 14 year later the health center works with multiple community/service partners (including CCHS). The fiscal partner is the YMCA East Bay, and is supported by University partners including UCB Schools of Social Welfare.
- Specifics Services at the health center:
 - Medical services: CCHS
 - Mental health/Social Work : including a robust clinical training program
 - After/Before School Programs (4th year in assets grant)
 - ELD support
 - 4th year in assets grant, for after and before school work:
 - Reaching out to students at risk of school failure.
 - Provide academic support, college readiness and advising.
 - Education workshops in assemblies and classrooms.
 - School Safety and Support Grant (S3 Grant)—working with the school administration starting with 9th grade houses
- The JMH has begun to reach out to middle school students in the education pipeline—ideally students would have a continuity of school based support and services from elementary, to middle school and through high school.

- Need to focus on building infrastructure and systems, rather than programs.
- Decision makers need to be present at each meeting.
- School Health coordinator meetings (meet monthly to talk about a lot of these issues)
- Food Policy Council
 - Nystrom is offering cooking classes for parent, focusing on integrating fruits/veggies into cooking. These parents are now expressing interest in school food policy.
 - Need to identify barriers in each system to further health work and partnerships.
- The YMCA East Bay was selected to receive training from the National Coalition of Community Schools. Bianca will report back.
- Youth Policy Institute, wants to partner with WCCUSD
 - Recent meeting with Youth Policy Institute in Los Angeles highlighted the need and desire for sharing relevant lessons across CA. These lessons can inform RHEP's work with the California Endowment's Building Healthy Communities Initiative.
 - More lessons can be learned from CT where community based organization are taking the lead in bolstering the FSCS
- How can we leverage the assets and capacity we have to meet community needs?
 - At the conference, the model for how to better involve parents in the decision process was not clear.
- Redwood City has a good model where sustainable funding was built in and included parents, school, and the business community.
 - Redwood City was successfully able to fund a family engagement position, which put a parent in a high leadership role. This position is no longer funded.
- At future conferences, a breakout session for local governments would be helpful.

VII. Full Service Community School Subcommittee Wendel Greer 10:45-11:00

- There are inherent challenges in WCCUSD in that there are over 30,000 students across 5 cities.
- One system is needed for a data tracking system that can be widely used.
